The Destination for Online Charitable Giving

Candy,

Recently, President Obama said education was a "prerequisite for prosperity." Not only does education shape a student's future—it also determines the future of our workforce and society. Sadly, many schools are starting this year with smaller budgets and are working harder than ever to bridge the gaps with direct fundraising and assistance from nonprofits and foundations.

Back to School Giving

In a recent JustGive survey, we learned that many of you want to know more about how your gifts make a difference. So here are a few examples of how donations can supply the resources schools so desperately need to provide quality education. We call it the ABCs of giving:

A – Access to education

A Better Chance opens the door to educational opportunities for thousands of young people of color.

- A $50 donation prepares one student applicant for the rigorous interviewing process with admissions representatives from roughly 300 college preparatory schools across the country.
- A $100 donation covers the cost of annual School Visits, where staff members check-in with current students and update them on new opportunities and resources available through the organization.

B – Basic supplies

When families and schools don't have the resources to help students succeed, it can cause poor grades, low self-esteem, and negative life choices.

- A gift of $25 to World Vision provides classroom resources like books, videos, art supplies, educational games, sports equipment, and more to help U.S. students excel.

Thanks to corporate donations to World Vision, your $25 gift will be matched to provide $150 worth of supplies!

- For $100, Room to Read purchases desks and chairs for a newly constructed classroom.

C – Creative expression

Research shows a strong relationship between learning in the arts, and skills used in reading, writing, and mathematics—and states that art and music help with personal and social development.

- A $25 donation to Create Now provides high-risk and at-risk children with musical instruments, computer software, art supplies and more.
- A $50 donation to Drawbridge delivers one month's worth of art supplies to homeless children, helping them thrive as they enjoy programs that foster creativity and joy.
